

Conflict Minerals Policy Statement

In response to violence and human rights violations in the mining of certain minerals from the Democratic Republic of the Congo (DRC) and surrounding countries, the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) has adopted rules to implement reporting and disclosure requirements related to “conflict minerals,” as directed by the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act of 2010. The rules require manufacturers who file certain reports with the SEC to disclose whether the products they manufacture or contract to manufacture contain “conflict minerals” that are “necessary to the functionality or production” of those products.

Vyrian, because it is a privately held company, is not required to file with the SEC. This document is intended to be used as a resource to Vyrian customers or resellers that may have the requirement to file with the SEC.

The definition of “conflict minerals” refers to gold, as well as tin, tantalum, and tungsten, the derivatives of cassiterite, columbite-tantalite, and wolframite, regardless of where they are sourced, processed or sold. Vyrian uses none of the raw materials related to the conflict minerals legislation or their direct derivatives in the conduct of its business.

Vyrian condemns the violence in the DRC and surrounding countries and is committed to supporting responsible sourcing of conflict minerals from the region. Vyrian, in partnership with current and future suppliers, will continue to monitor usage of materials affected by this legislation to ensure compliance.

Sincerely,

Sath Sivasothy
